Eligibility for credit

If you paid qualified care expenses for a qualifying family member during the tax year, you may be able to take the family member care income tax credit. See “Qualified care expenses” and “Qualifying family member” below. If you qualify for the credit, you must complete this schedule and attach it to your return.

You must attach a statement showing the type and amount of the qualified care expenses you paid during the tax year. In the case where the expense is for services, you also must identify the person or organization that performed the services.

If you paid qualified care expenses for more than one qualifying family member, you must complete a separate Schedule ND-1FC for each qualifying family member.

Qualified care expenses

Qualified care expenses means expenses for home health agency services, companionship services (see below), personal care attendant services, homemaker services, adult day care, respite care, and any other expenses that are deductible medical expenses under federal income tax law. To qualify, the expense must be:

- Provided to or for the benefit of (or needed by the taxpayer to care for) a qualifying family member;
- Provided by an organization or individual not related to the taxpayer or the qualifying family member; and
- Not compensated for by insurance or a federal or state assistance program.

Companionship services—Companionship services means services that provide fellowship, care and protection for a person who is unable to care for his or her own needs because of advanced age or a physical or mental disability. These services include household work directly related to the care of the aged or disabled person, such as meal preparation, bed making, washing clothes and other similar services. These services may also include household work not directly related to the care of the aged or disabled person if the time it takes to do this work during any week does not exceed 20% of the total hours worked during that same week.

Companionship services do not include services which require, and are performed by, trained personnel. This includes a registered or practical nurse, or services to care for and protect infants and children who are not physically or mentally disabled.

Qualified care expenses deducted for federal income tax purposes are not eligible for the credit.

A qualifying family member is a person who:

1. Is related to you by blood or marriage.
2. Is either at least 65 years old or disabled as defined by the Social Security Administration. Attach a copy of a letter from a physician, the ND Dept. of Human Services, or other competent authority that attests the qualifying family member meets SSA's definition of a qualifying disability.
3. Has federal taxable income equal to or less than:

 - b. $35,000, if married. (Include both spouses' incomes.)

The taxpayer and the qualifying family member may not be the same person.
